BOUGHT STORE OF DAVIS & CO.

New Firm of Funkhouser and Sachs Takes Charge at Once. Both Men of Experience in Business Mr. Davis to Leave Town.

Roy P. Funkhouser and Simon J. Sachs, both of Washington County, Maryland, have purchased the Davis and Company clothing store in the Masonic Building. They took possession today. The purchase price was $10,000.

The name of the firm will be Funkhouser and Sachs and the present stock will be sold immediately to make room for an entire new stock of clothing and furnishings. Mr. Davis will remain with the firm for a short time and will then move to Pittsburg.

Mr. Funkhouser is a member of the firm of Funkhouser Brothers which conducts a large and successful general merchandise store at Big Pool, Maryland, supplying a community which includes five Maryland, and Pennsylvania counties. He will retain his interest in that store. Mr. Sachs was also engaged in the merchandise business until about two years ago when he entered the postal service as a railway mail clerk.

The new firm comes to Gettysburg with every prospect of success in carrying on this well established store and The Times extends cordial greetings to the gentlemen who will, in the future, conduct the business.

AEROPLANE ACCIDENT AT HANOVER

Despite treacherous wind currents and no sleep for 36 hours, Aviator Walter Johnson, of Rochester, N. Y., attempted a flight in a Thomas' biplane at the Hanover fair grounds Wednesday afternoon, and smashed his machine. Early in the afternoon announcement was made that Johnson would not fly unless the wind abated. Although the wind did not change, desiring to satisfy the clamoring thousands, the birdman finally agreed to fly. He got away all right, but before he passed over the race track and out of the fair ground the dreaded down currents of air struck him and twice his aeroplane sank.

When making a turn to clear some houses the wind bore down on the machine and he was forced to alight. He hit at express train speed in a plowed field, and instead of rolling along as the machine would have done on smooth ground, the skids stuck in the furrows and the momentum caused the aeroplane to turn turtle. Johnson was hurled from his seat with terrific force, but crawled out of the machine's path and escaped injury.

VETERANS AT HOLLY PARK

Two hundred members of the Southern District Association of the G. A. R., of Pennsylvania, assembled in the ninth annual reunion at Mt. Holly Park Wednesday. Every train to Carlisle from North and South brought Civil War veterans and the trip from Carlisle to the Park was made by trolley and automobiles.

The Southern district of the state includes Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, Fulton, Perry, Juniata and Mifflin counties, and all counties were represented except Fulton.

40 YEARS A MISSIONARY

Mrs. P. M. Buck, nee Carrie MacMillan, who went to India from this place forty years ago as a missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has returned with Dr. Buck and their daughter on furlough. Dr. Buck is in Illinois visiting the Western conferences in the interest of missions. Mrs. Buck is spending a few weeks with her brother, O. D. MacMillan, at the MacMillan home on West Confederate avenue.

SIX STAR PICKERS

Six men working in the Wilson Reynolds orchards, Mont Alto, Monday, picked 370 large baskets of peaches that were immediately shipped to the city market. These six men didn't count the amount of culls they picked along with the good ones.

BIRTH

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Diehl, of near Cashtown, a son.

SOME ONE will be sorry if you do not get the particulars about what $1300.00 will buy in the shape of a home in Cashtown, right along the pike and on the corner of the cross roads, good buildings and a large lot. Get busy and write to R. O. Hafer, Chambersburg, Pa., about this splendid proposition.

THE store of Funkhouser and Sachs will remain open Friday evening and Saturday.

FOR SALE: five room weather-boarded house and seven room brick house on York street. Inquire of W. H. Aughinbaugh.

COMMISSION MEMBER DIES

William Penn Lloyd, Member of Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration Commission Dies. State Senator from Adams-Cumberland.

Colonel William Penn Lloyd, a prominent attorney and well known in Grand Army of the Republic circles, died at his home in Mechanicsburg at noon Wednesday.

Colonel Lloyd studied law under the late Colonel William M. Penrose, of Carlisle, and was admitted to the Cumberland county bar in 1865. During the following year, 1866, he was appointed United States Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifteenth Congressional district of Pennsylvania. This office he resigned to accept a position as assistant cashier in the Dauphin Deposit Bank, of Harrisburg. He resigned his position with the bank in 1884 and took up the practice of law, which he continued along with the management of extensive financial and agricultural interests for a number of years.

He was elected State Senator from the Thirty Second Senatorial District, comprising Adams and Cumberland counties in 1890, over Ephraim Myers, Republican, and Alexander H. Ege, Prohibitionist. He was a colleague of S. J. M. McCarrell, now associate law judge, and of George Handy Smith.

For thirty years Colonel William Penn Lloyd was solicitor for the Cumberland Valley Railroad and treasurer of the State Bar Association for eighteen years, ever since it was organized. He was director of the Harrisburg Bridge Company, and director and secretary of the Allen and East Pennsboro Fire Insurance Company.

Colonel Lloyd was a member of the Gettysburg Battlefield Commission, which has charge of the preparations for the coming semi centennial celebration, and also on the board of managers of the Harrisburg Hospital.

The survivors are a widow, a son, George E., daughter, Mrs. A. H. Smith, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial will be made in St. John's Cemetery, near Shiremanstown.

DAVID H. MYERS

David H. Myers died at his home in Latimore township on Monday night aged about 75 years.

For the past fifteen years he had been a sufferer from heart trouble but his end was hastened by an accident he met with several weeks ago when he suffered a broken leg.

He was a resident of Latimore township his entire life with the exception of a year when he served in the Civil War as a private in Co. D, 78th Penna. Vols. It is a peculiar fact that three important events in his life occurred on Sept. 18th. On that date he entered the Union service, was discharged on the same date and now his death on Monday. Mr. Myers was serving his second term a commander of the Peter Miller Post G. A. R. of York Springs, of which he has been member since 1888. He was one of the oldest school teachers in Adams county having followed that profession for many years.

Since the death of his wife fourteen years ago Mr. Myers had been making his home with his cousin, Miss Louisa Hikes, near York Springs, and from that place the funeral services will take place on Friday morning at 9 o'clock with interment at the Lower Bermudian Church.

CHARLES COOK

NEW DEPARTURE ON LINCOLN WAY

Would Make Washington Hub of Big Road System. Lincoln Way from Capitol City to Seattle. Monster Plan.

The latest thing in Lincoln Way news is the report that Washington is to be the center of a great system of national highways if a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Cullum becomes a law. A Lincoln highway from Washington to Seattle is one of the proposed roads.

The bill proposes that the Federal Government appropriate $1,000,000 to enable a commission to make plans for seven great national roads. These would branch out like the spokes of a huge wheel from the National Capital. The total cost is estimated to be $148,000,000, and the construction would cost $12,000 a mile.

The highways are designated in the bill to be known as the Washington, Roosevelt, Lincoln, Great National, Jefferson, Monroe, and Lee Highways. The Washington road would run to Portland, Me.; the Roosevelt to Niagara Falls; the Lincoln to Seattle, Wash. by way of Chicago; the Great National to the Pacific Coast, across the central part of the country; the Jefferson, across New Mexico, Arizona, and California, to San Francisco; the Monroe to Austin, Tex.; and the Lee to Miami, Fla. All these roads would originate in Washington.

The roads would run into all but six states of the Union. Back of the project are a number of prominent members of Congress and business men. Included in the project are various roads which have been proposed from time to time. Former Representative King, at one time chairman of the Mississippi river commission, originated the plan.

An immediate outlay of $2,000,000 for maps, surveys, and other preliminaries is proposed in the bill.

PROBABLY FATALLY HURT

D. Leslie Diehl, of Greencastle, a graduate of Gettysburg College in 1903 and a member of the firm of the Ferro Concrete Company of Harrisburg, was probably fatally injured, one woman was killed and her sister badly hurt in an automobile accident at Easton Wednesday.

Mr. Diehl, who had been at Easton since May supervising the construction of the bridge across the Lehigh river, went out in his automobile with Miss Catharine Warner and Miss Helen Warner, friends of the family, and was returning to Easton when the accident occurred.

The car was running at a high rate of speed and in attempting to get out of the way of an approaching auto Mr. Diehl lost control of the machine. The auto dashed against a rock and all of the occupants were thrown out. Miss Catharine Warner was killed and her sister badly hurt.

BRITISH CRUISER RAMS OLYMPIC

Greatest Steamer Badly Damaged in Collision.

2000 PASSENGERS ABOARD

Large Hole Smashed in Her Side
When H. M. S. Hawke Hits Her.
Warship Also Damaged.

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 21.—The Olympic, the proudest of the White Star company's transatlantic liners, and the biggest passenger vessel now afloat, returned to this port four hours after she had sailed for New York, with a big hole in her starboard bow, but with her more than 2000 passengers unharmed.

The passengers had an exciting tale to tell of a collision with the British cruiser Hawke off the Isle of Wight. The steamer took considerable water, and it was at first thought that it would be necessary to beach her, and Captain Smith made for a mud bank in the Cowes Roadstead. The prompt closing of the collision doors, however, effectually stopped the rush of the sea, and her commander, convinced that there was no immediate danger, brought his vessel about and headed for Southampton.

The Olympic is anchored off Calshot Castle at the entrance to Southampton Water. The hole in the Olympic's hull is forty feet long.

Many of the first class cabin passengers are expected to return to London and the White Star company is engaging hotel accommodations there for them. The Olympic's passengers and mails probably will proceed for New York by the steamers sailing from British ports on Saturday.

Watchers at Cowes saw the steamer moving toward the shore, then stop, and believing that she had been beached, sent out the report to this effect. Later, when she drew away, it was supposed that the liner had been floated without assistance. The Olympic was off Osborne bay, on the north coast of the Isle of Wight, on the way to Cherbourg, her first immediate stop on the way to Queenstown and New York, when the accident occurred.

An eye-witness of the collision said that the Hawke was undergoing steam trials following extensive repairs at Portsmouth and was traveling at great speed when she overtook the Olympic. The cruiser was passing the liner to the starboard, when suddenly the former drew in and crashed into the steamer's quarter about twenty feet from the stern. This witness said he thought that the warship had been drawn against the other vessel by the suction. After the impact the Hawke drew astern and her crew threw the collision mats over a badly damaged bow.

The Olympic, as she drew away from the cruiser, exhibited an ugly hole into which great quantities of water raced. Captain Smith ordered the collision doors closed and turned his vessel toward the beach. At the same time he signalled for assistance to Portsmouth and Cowes, both of which ports sent tugs, but the latter were not finally required. A quick examination showed that the Olympic was still seaworthy and she was brought about and steamed slowly for this port. The Hawke was also able to make Portsmouth without aid. The cruiser arrived there under her own steam, dipping slightly at the bow and steaming astern.

There was considerable excitement, but no panic on board the liner, the passengers of which were quickly reassured by the officers. The weather was somewhat thick and there was a rain and squall at the time of the accident, but the haze was not sufficient to obscure either vessel from the other.

LACKAWANNA STRIKE

More Men Out—Federal Intervention Asked.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 21.—More accessions to the striking section hands of the Lackawanna railroad were reported at the headquarters of President Lowe, of the International Union of Maintenance of Way Employees.

Falling thus far to secure conferences with President Trustees and Chief Engineer Ray through Deputy Commissioner Downey, of the New York state department of labor, President Lowe forwarded an appeal to Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, at Washington.

No disorder is reported along the system. The section men wherever out have been cautioned by their leaders to stay away from the company's property.

Use Wine to Quench Fire.

San Francisco, Sept. 21.—The old town of Sonoma was saved from destruction by fire by the use of wine from great tanks in the wineries there. The town is built almost entirely of wood, and when the fire started it spread with great rapidity. The water supply was practically exhausted when the firemen turned their attention to the wine tanks.

Illinois Coal Output.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21.—The total output of coal from Illinois mines for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, was 59,165,999 tons. A man was killed for every 319,523 tons mined.

SIX HACKED TO DEATH WITH AXE

Husband of Woman Suspected of Brutal Murders.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 21.—The bodies of a man, two women and three children, all with their heads split open, were found in a house on West Dale street.

They had been murdered a week or ten days ago. The dead were identified as Mrs. Alice E. May Burnham and her six-year-old son and two-year-old daughter; Henry Wayne, his wife, Blanche Wayne, and their one-year-old baby.

The killing was done with an axe borrowed from a neighbor. The police are looking for Burnham. All of the six were evidently murdered in their sleep, as their bodies were found in their beds.

MISS DE WITT INDICTED

Alleged "Poisoned Pen" Writer Must Answer Charge.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Miss Harriet De Witt, of Easton, Pa., was indicted by a federal grand jury, charged with sending obscene letters through the mails.

She was arrested on Aug. 28 by Postal Inspector Schoenberger. The witnesses who appeared against her were Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Snyder, Postmaster Joseph Pascoe, of Easton; William Tice, Florence Willauer, Mrs. J. White and a number of others.

Miss De Witt is at present at liberty under bail. The case is scheduled to come up in court in December.

GIRL CLERK IS SHORT

Raised Vouchers and Changed Receipts to Draw Money.

Indianapolis, Sept. 21.—Additional discrepancies in the accounts of Miss Myrtle Bamsford, formerly a clerk in the office of the state mine inspector, bring the total shortage up to $5000, and the experts are not yet through with their work.

The young lady disappeared a few months ago and it has been impossible to locate her. The discrepancies consist of raised vouchers and changes in receipts by which she drew money from the state treasury to which the office was not entitled.

Wells Outpoints Attell.

New York, Sept. 21.—With at least fifteen pounds in his favor, Matt Wells, England's lightweight champion, outpointed Abe Attell, the American featherweight champion, in a scientific ten-round fight in Madison Square Garden. Wells was the stronger and faster from start to finish. He forced the issue incessantly.

CLAYTON'S CORDIAL

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.

When you take a spinster who has got to be forty years old, who has got a large mouth, whose nose tilts up at the end, who has a cast in one eye, who is tall and scrawny and has a limp, you must figure out that her chances of getting married are not more than one in a thousand.

Such a woman was Sarah Clayton of Harperville. For thirty years she had been the champion homely girl and woman of Bennett county. She realized it, but she couldn't help it. Sarah's father and mother didn't like her looks at all. Some folks were mean enough to say that hastened their end. Sarah had two brothers. They ran away and went west to be killed by the Indians. Some folks say that if Sarah had been a reasonably good looking girl neither brother would have left home. At the age of twenty-eight she was an orphan and brotherless, and, while the property she inherited was enough to give her a comfortable living, it was not enough to bring a husband.

While Sarah realized all the drawbacks, she was not entirely discouraged. She had a belief that something would happen some day, and she didn't go around making herself and other folks miserable. Twelve years came and went and nothing happened, but she was still on the job.

At the state election, with the temperance question as an issue, Bennett county and four others surrounding it went dry—no more of the foamy, no more corn juice.

You can't figure out what this temperance question had to do with Sarah Clayton, who scarcely knew what was going on until Bennett county was as dry as a bone. Well, homely as she was, Sarah understood the man side of human nature very well. She knew there would be an intense longing for the unattainable.

After the temperance movement was in full swing and the pinch was on "Clayton's cordial" appeared. It passed as a soft drink. Some folks said it was cider, some root beer and some thought it came under the head of ginger ale. Whatever it was, it wore the label as above, and it jumped into popularity at once. It filled an aching void. It soothed and comforted. It quenched that longing in the neck. It did more. It saved hundreds of homes on the point of being wrecked. It had got so that not one husband out of twenty in the five counties could speak a decent word to his wife once in three days. And then there were loss of ambition, indigestion, headaches, pains in the stomach and giddiness, and all these things the cordial was warranted to and did drive away in short order.

Sarah made the first fifty bottles with her own hands. Then she had to hire a boy, then she had to hire a man as well, then she had put it on sale at the drug store. Nothing ever made a name for itself as fast as "Clayton's cordial." It could not be made and bottled fast enough to supply orders. Of course the spinster had calls from men who wanted to buy her secret. A dozen in her own town stood ready to pay a good price for it. There were two sorts of men came—married and unmarried. The married men were turned down at once. The secret was not for sale. The unmarried ones were told that the cordial must stay in the family. That wasn't saying right out that no one but a husband would be given the recipe, but the unmarried callers caught on one after another. There was money in that recipe, but there was Sarah behind it—Sarah the homely. They thought of the balmy cordial and then looked at the homely woman. No, no! It was too much. Sarah understood and did not blame them. Neither was she cast down. She just went right ahead turning out the great and only discovery and supplying other markets, and the orders and dollars kept rolling in.

And one day he came. He was an old bachelor of forty-five. He had spent most of his years in the woods and far from women. He had never even thought of marriage. He wasn't a bad looking man, and he bore a good character. He happened to see Sarah Clayton in the postoffice, and in the jerk of a lamb's tail he was in love. In his eyes she was the most charming woman he had ever seen. She must be his or his life would be naught to him. Without having heard of her cordial from any one he followed her home and told his love and gave her half an hour to make up her mind.

"But I am afraid you are actuated by mercenary motives," she said. "Why, I've got enough to keep us both and am making more all the time." "But you see I have made a whole lot of money out of my cordial." "Cordial be hanged! If you have any money use it to buy clothes with."

"And you are not after the recipe?" "Never had a recipe in my life and don't want one. I want you."

After the marriage Sarah was willing to sell the recipe. When the best offer had been reached she wrote it down:

"Old cider, twenty parts. "Ginger, two parts. "Horseradish, five parts. "Brandy, seventy-three parts. "That is all," she said.

"And you've made $5,000 and a husband out of it?" "Why—why, I think I've done fairly well for a homely old maid!"

Beets as a Dairy Feed. Beets are excellent food to use in the fall and early winter, and I have found that by giving from fifteen to twenty-five pounds of beets per cow per day I can change from the best of grass to hay without causing any shrinkage in milk, says Professor A. L. Haecker. Use plenty of straw for bedding, and if you haven't enough ask your neighbor who burns his to sell you his stock.

FEEDING THE COW BEFORE CALVING.

The dairy cow when dry should be fed chiefly on roughage. A small allowance of grain, say two pounds daily, will be quite enough, provided she is in reasonably good physical condition, and it is well to have it rich in protein, says Hoard's Dairyman.

Brans or oats or a mixture of brans and oats with a little oilmeal or some other feed rich in protein makes a good combination for a cow before calving. Corn silage and roots are very acceptable feeds if the cow has no pasture. In connection with the succulent feed the cow should have a liberal allowance of clover or alfalfa hay or some other roughage rich in protein.

The pure bred Holstein-Friesian cow Pontiac Clothilde De Kol II., whose portrait is herewith shown, is owned by Stevens Bros.' company of Liverpool, N. Y. Calving for the first time a few days after she was two years old, she produced 15.8 pounds of butter in seven days and a year later increased this to 22.09 pounds. As a four-year-old she made a great record, 28.2 pounds of butter in seven days, and as a five-year-old made 30.7 pounds, while her sensational record of 37.21 pounds was made in her six-year-old form. She produced last year 17,664 pounds of milk, averaging 3.81 per cent fat, thus containing sufficient fat for 75.3 pounds of commercial butter.

A cow at this time should not be fed more roughage than she will eat up clean. If fed too liberally there is danger of her getting into the habit of eating the most palatable parts of the roughage and wasting much good feed. A cow on pasture needs no grain, but a little roughage would be very acceptable. Of course if the animal is thin in flesh it is well to feed some grain. The amount must depend entirely upon the condition of the cow.

If a cow has been properly fed there will be no necessity for giving any medicine after calving. A bran mash over which some warm water has been poured is a very acceptable feed, especially in cold weather. Ground oats mixed with grain and a pail of warm water can be given, for it will be found that her feverish and exhausted condition at this time demands considerable water, and it is much better to be given warm than cold. She should not be exposed to cold drafts of air.

At the beginning of her milking period the cow should be fed very lightly of grain, but a liberal allowance of good silage, roots and hay. As she gains strength and resumes her normal condition the grain portion of her ration may be increased. The increase may be kept up as long as the animal responds to the extra feed. When she has reached her maximum of milk she should be fed a little less grain.

The dairy cow should be fed liberally, but care should be taken not to overfeed her and carry her beyond her capacity. This works injury not only to her milk function, but to her breeding powers.

The tremendous force of a lightning bolt is shown in many instances which are of common occurrence. Perhaps in no way is this power more effectively shown than when a bolt shatters a large tree. This happened a short time ago during a storm which passed over the section in which the writer lives. The lightning struck a huge cottonwood tree and knocked it to splinters. One of these, more than four feet long and as big as one's wrist, was hurled a distance of twelve rods from the front of one farm home across the road and into the yard of a neighbor.

The beneficial effects coming from putting in extensive intercounty drainage systems in a number of sections of Minnesota and Iowa are now fairly apparent. Country that previously would grow practically nothing in wet seasons but wild hay are this year covered with bumper crops of corn or have produced paying crops of wheat, oats or flax. This condition has been hastened by two dry seasons, but in seasons of normal rainfall the improvement in the condition of the soil as a result of proper drainage will be very noticeable. It has taken a whole lot of persuasion and some litigation to get a few farmers to look at this drainage proposition in the right light, but after the next rainy season they stay converted.

ARREST FOUR IN LYNCHING PROBE

Police Chief and Three Others Are Held.

COATESVILLE ANGRY AT MOVE

Grand Jury Report Severely Censures Citizens For Failing to Prevent Burning of Negro.

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 21.—Chief of Police Charles E. Umsted, of Coatesville; Stanley Howe, a policeman; Richard Tucker, an insurance agent, and Walter Markwood, a mill hand, were arrested on charges preferred at the instance of the grand jury which investigated the lynching of Zack Walker, at Coatesville, on Aug. 13.

Chief Umsted was released under $2000 bail, the amount being fixed by Judge Butler. J. V. Pennegar, borough treasurer of Coatesville, went the bail.
Umsted at once departed for Coatesville.

Stanley Howe also was admitted to bail in the sum of $2000 in District Attorney Gawthrop's office, where Burgess Shalleross had already arranged to go his bail.

Tucker and Markwood were allowed to consult with their attorney before being taken to the county jail. Neither had anything to say. Burgess Shalleross was reticent.

Umsted and Howe are accused of involuntary manslaughter. Tucker and Markwood face a charge of murder.
Chief Umsted came from Coatesville as soon as he learned that a warrant had been issued for his arrest. He was accompanied by Mr. Pennegar.

Howe, Tucker and Markwood were arrested in Coatesville by Sheriff Golder. They were taken to the Coatesville police station and later brought here.

When Chief Umsted stepped from the trolley car he remarked: "I am here to take my medicine, if there is any to take."

All the prisoners willingly submitted to arrest. They were on the streets of Coatesville for several hours waiting the arrival of the warrants. Feeling in Coatesville runs high over the move of the county authorities. It is said that a mass meeting will be called to express the indignation of the townspeople over the arrests.

It was rumored that a warrant also would be issued for the arrest of District Attorney Gawthrop. His accuser, it is said, will be Calvin B. Umsted, brother of the chief of police. Gaw-throp, it is said, was present in Coatesville on the night of the outrage and did nothing toward stopping the mob.

In addition to recommending the four arrests, the grand jury censured every member of the police force, Burgess Shalleross, the Brandywine Fire company and the citizens of Coatesville in general for their lack of support of the law in obtaining justice.

The report is twenty-one pages in length and goes into every phase of the question. Following its acceptance by the court, Judge Butler dismissed the grand jury.

"Gentlemen of the grand jury, your presentment as submitted has had your careful consideration and action, and we now accept this your final report."

"You have been a great many days giving your time and energy to this difficult task of investigating the lynching. You have been aided by the district attorney and the deputy attorney general and with them have examined everybody who, in your opinion, could throw any light on the affair. It is your conviction, and that of the two officers I have mentioned, that you have gone into the probe to the end."

"It follows that you are entitled to honorable discharge as a jury of investigation. You command the gratitude of the public. No one on reading your report can fail to recognize that your duty has been faithfully done.
You have borne yourselves as responsible men. That more information has not been secured is no disgrace to you."

"Your examination must, aside from the direct results, have a salutary influence. Such conduct as you have probed will neither be tolerated nor condoned in this county. You have shown every one that the law must be supreme and that atonement by law must result from mob murder, which only differs from the individual murder through the fact that it is more cowardly."

Woman Killed in Motor Wreck.

Easton, Pa., Sept. 21.—In an automobile accident a short distance above this city, Miss Catherine Warner, of Easton, was killed; her sister, Miss Helen Warner, was badly hurt, and George Diehl, probably fatally injured.
It was Diehl's car and he was running it. Diehl is the engineer in charge of the work on the new Lehigh river bridge.

MORE CUSTOMS FRAUDS UNEARTHED

New York Importers Accused of Undervaluing Goods.

New York, Sept. 21.—Sigmund L.
Fleischer, of the firm of Naday & Fleischer, importers of women's wearing apparel and laces, at 79 Fifth avenue, and David R. Bratter, an employe, were arrested by Special Agents Craft and Tucker, of the department of justice, on the charge of undervaluing imports from France, Belgium and other countries. The other member of the firm, John Naday, for whom a warrant has been issued, sailed for Europe.

According to the special agents the value of the merchandise involved in the alleged frauds exceeds $500,000.

United States Attorney Wise said he had not fully investigated the case and did not know the extent of the frauds, but believed them to be considerable.
The complaint cites seven importations involving goods valued at $5, 476.42 francs, according to the firm's consular invoices, which are alleged to be false. The true values are not given. The offenses cover the period from July, 1908, to July, 1911. The complaint, however, covers only a small part of the offenses, according to Assistant United States Attorney Walton, who says the firm is a big one, and does a business of $1,000,000 a year.

CANADA IS VOTING TODAY

Both Sides Claim Victory on Reciprocity Question.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—After a flood of oratory the voters of Canada are today deciding the fate of the Laurier government and of reciprocity with the United States.

Little modification is made in the claims of the government or the opposition. Both profess certainty of victory and say the only question is the size of the majorities. Government estimates appear to average about 40;
the opposition claim 15 to 45 majority.
Much uncertainty exists as to what appeals have most affected the "silent voter," and as to the government's success in securing the country's real feeling regarding reciprocity uninfluenced by other issues, national and local, continuously emphasized by the opposition.

There appear to be indications that the Bourassa Nationalists campaign, which a month ago threatened to divert many votes from the premier, especially among the young French voters, has weakened under Sir Wilfrid Laurier's personal appeals and his assurance of the unreality of several alleged menaces to the rights and privileges of the French speaking population of the Dominion.

Sears was made in the verdict.

TAFT IS CHEERED AND DEEDS LAUDED

Michigan Congressman Supplies
Praise at Marquette.

BIG CROWD DOES THE REST

After Being Introduced as a Genuine Progressive, the President Talks on Peace and Arbitration.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 21.—President Taft came within ninety miles of the Wisconsin border. He was introduced for the principal address of the day by Representative Young, of this district, who made the president's appearance the occasion for a bitter attack upon "the spurious progressiveness of shiftily politicians at which cynics smile and angels weep."

This introduction was made by the congressman to 8000 of his constituents at a mass meeting. The affair was held beneath a big tent on the shore of Lake Superior, and the people were packed in far beyond the reasonable capacity of the canvas.

When the president arrived the crowd had been waiting for some time and in the press had warmed up to a high pitch of excitement. It was such a crowd as would quickly heckle a man, and while Mr. Taft spoke there were several interruptions from his audience.

Representative Young in his introduction of the president put him before his audience as a president and a leader who had been "prudent and aggressively progressive," exercising a "genuinely progressive constructiveness." And having said this of Mr.
Taft's progressiveness he proceeded to lay those progressives whose strong hold lay but ninety miles further to the west. The crowd gave their congressman the applause that he bid for in his speech.

The primary at the last congressional election showed that the insurgent influence had spread from Wisconsin into the upper peninsula and threatened the jobs of several congressmen.
The president proved that the insurgency which had entered up here is not the anti-Taft brand. Marquette gave him a warm welcome, as has every town he has visited in Michigan thus far.

But so far as Mr. Taft himself was concerned, he made this one of the non-political days of his trip. They asked him to talk on the tariff, but as he is to make an address on this at Grand Rapids, he would not anticipate himself, and the ban on reciprocity which he has placed upon himself will not be raised until after the election in Canada. So he told them at the mass meeting that he wanted to talk to them about peace and arbitration, about the Honduran and Nicraguan treaties. This was the only serious address that the president made in Marquette.

SHARK KILLS A MAN

Pilot of Schooner Falls Overboard and Is Crushed by Great Fish.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 21.—Death and a huge shark won in a race with the schooner Wallace A. McDonald, Captain Tony McGinty.

The schooner put back to Pensacola to report the loss of Thomas Ashe, known as "British Tom," the pilot of the boat. While Ashe was at the wheel with the schooner making considerable leeway, he slipped and fell overboard. Immediately a great shark started after him.

Small boats were launched and the schooner was put about, but not until Ashe had been left far astern. Ashe was a powerful swimmer, and the shouts from his comrades on deck encouraged him.

But the man-made craft were no match for the great fish. The chase lasted perhaps two miles, and the schooner was close enough to throw a line when the shark's body shot over Ashe. The fish turned in the water, with the dripping corpse in his mouth.
The shark was killed.

Troops Disarm Chinese Rebels.

Pekin, Sept. 21.—Chao-Erh-Feng, the military commander of Cheng-Tu, reports that the insurgents have organized posses of artillery and are numerically strong. As fast as one force is dispersed others appear, he says. It is held here that the commander may be magnifying his victories and ignoring details. He also reports the capture of 2000 pieces of the rebels' munitions, including cannon, rifles, swords, spears and banners.

Embezzled $4000; Gets a Year.

Media, Pa., Sept. 21.—Charles W.
Rider, a former ticket agent at the Upland station of the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington railroad, pleaded guilty to embezzling $4400 and was sentenced to one year in jail.

Small Ohio Bank Closed.

Columbus, O., Sept. 21.—Bank Ex-

Molting and the putting forth of a new outfit of feathers come as more or less of a strain, and especially to the hen that has been laying up to within a short time of molting. It is well, therefore, while the new feathers are being put forth to give a generous ration and one in which meat scrap or other protein element is a considerable factor. The better condition the hens are kept in the quicker they will get their new feathers and be ready for laying.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier
of Canada.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada since 1896, stakes his political future on the result of the reciprocity campaign. In the course of a recent speech Sir Wilfrid announced that if defeated in his fight for reciprocity in the elections he would retire at once and forever from public life and would not lead the opposition in the next parliament. "Rest to me is very sweet," said the premier, "and if defeated not a word of reproach will pass my lips."

Premier Laurier is a native of Quebec, will be seventy years old next November and is the first French Canadian to hold the post of premier of Canada. He is a lawyer by profession and entered politics as a member of parliament in 1871. He was minister of inland revenue in 1877 and in 1891 he became leader of the Liberal party.

The Flight of Time.

Captain William L. Ritter, secretary of the Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States, was talking in Baltimore apropos of Memorial day of the flight of time.

"Nothing so marks the flight of time," said Captain Ritter, "as the sight of a thousand white haired and white bearded veterans in a Memorial day parade."

"I knew a brave old veteran who had his photograph taken in uniform last Memorial day. On seeing the proof he complained:

"But I look so bent and weak I looked ever so much better in that other one you took of me at my daughter's marriage."

"The photographer smiled a little sadly and replied:

"Ah, sir, I haven't got the artistic taste I had when I was young. Besides, my camera is getting old."

New Head of the Grand Army.

Judge Harvey M. Trimble of Bloomington, Ill., the new commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has been a prominent figure in the organization for many years. He was president of the Vicksburg park commission and has been commander of the department of Illinois.

The new commander is a native of Ohio, but most of his life has been spent in Illinois. He was a student at Eureka college when he enlisted for the civil war in the Ninety-third Illinois volunteers. Except for a period of fourteen days, when he was a prisoner of war, he participated in every movement of his regiment, including the Mississippi campaign, the Yazoo Pass expedition, Chattanooga, Alatona, Missionary Ridge, the march to the sea, the Carolina campaign and finally the grand review at Washington.

After he was mustered out he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1867. He has been successful both at the bar and on the bench, having served as county judge and circuit judge of his district.

On Dec. 31 last there were 203,410 members of the G. A. R.; 10,491 veterans died last year. Past Commander Gilman says the G. A. R. can only last twenty-five years longer.

A historic cherry tree was felled not long ago on the Koandah farms, near Burlington, N. J. The tree was of the Grayheart variety and had stood for more than 150 years. An idea of the size and age of the tree is gained from the fact that a short distance below the first branches it had a circumfer-ence of fourteen feet five inches.
While some of the upper limbs were decayed, a fact which led to the felling of the tree, the giant trunk was solid to the center.

Ladies and Misses TAILORED SUITS

A great deal could be said in the praise of our New Fall Suits and Coats for Ladies and Children, but the garments are in such attractive styles, that to see them is to have them speak for themselves. We have also a complete assortment of odd sizes running from 35 to 47 bust measure. No trouble to be fitted. Prices start at $10.00 for Suits and rise in easy stages to $30.00. We believe each suit to be worth from $2.50 to $5.00 more than our price.

The bacon and corn fed hogs are types that are doubtless more due to a definite practice of feeding than to any other set of influences, as either type begins to change if given the other conditions of feed.

The limit which several states name for cutting roadside weeds is such as to permit most weeds to mature a prolific crop of seeds before their heads are taken out, and the law referred to belongs to this class.

A thought that comes involuntarily to mind as one passes through orchards these days where all kinds of fruit is rotting under the trees is the pity of it that thousands upon thousands of the poorer classes of our large cities could not be provided with some of this waste. So seldom do such folks have a bite of fresh fruit, yet there seems no feasible plan by which it can be got to them unless railroads or philanthropists should provide free transportation.

There is little wonder that the growing of alfalfa needs no encouragement in sections where it has been demonstrated it will do well. This remark is prompted by noting recently the case of a Kansas farmer who harvested 178 bushels of alfalfa seed from eleven acres, or an average of 15.59 bushels per acre. The owner refused $80 per bushel for it, which would mean even at this price a return of $129.00 per acre. Besides this, its owner will get one or two cuttings of hay.

How the Big Prepare For

By TOMMY CLARK.
Few except those in the game realize what the early days of the training season mean to the football players. While the days are still uncomfortable with summer heat the football player begins the first course in the preparation which is to harden him for the big contests scheduled three months away. This preparation varies in a multitude of ways. Some combine business and training by selecting a vocation which gives them plenty of hard work in the open air, while others in perhaps more fortunate circumstances train a few hours a day on the outskirts of some seashore or mountain summer resort. Under the supervision of their captain, coaches and trainer the more serious work is begun. For the first few days little is attempted beyond the kicking and catching of the football, running practice to improve the wind and endurance of the candidates and possibly an occasional lineup for illustrative purposes with all scrimmage work eliminated. At the beginning of the second week the half hour of practice is lengthened into twice the time, and, while the rudimentary instruction is continued, tackling, defensive and offensive formations and a little scrimmage work are injected into the training. The mile or more run around the track, followed by shower baths and a rub-down, closes a day's work.

Next the scrub or second team, as it is known, is called into operation, and the practice begins to acquire the aspect of a regular football game. As the players of the two teams contend under the watchful eyes of the coaches the latter point out and rectify errors in form and tactics which the players may develop.

The training table is started, and the rubbers begin to be called into use at the end of each afternoon's work in order to massage away the bruises and strains incidental to the practice.

By the middle of October both the coaches and trainers know the physical and mental peculiarities of their charges and fit the training schedule to meet their requirements, so far as is possible.

The squad of perhaps sixty-five candidates has been reduced, 50 per cent by the elimination of those unfit from one cause or another to stand the strain of football play, and the remaining candidates are beginning to be divided into those mystic sections known as varsity and second squads.

Now approaches the period when with the big games less than a month away, the eleven players with their individual ability and playing peculiarities must be welded into a perfect football machine that acts with resistless force at the command of the quarterback.

Afternoon practice is augmented by early morning work, consisting of drop kicking, tackling and other features of the play in which certain members of the squad may be deficient. Thus the men who win mention during the preliminary games of the football season round into form for the struggle which brings victory or defeat.

JOHNSON GREATEST PITCHER.

Catcher Street Says He Is Performing Better Now Than Ever.

"I have been catching Walter Johnson since the day he came out of the woods in Idaho, and you can take it from me he is today a better pitcher than he has been at any other time in his career." Thus spoke Charley Street of the Washington Americans recently. "Walter came in for some pretty hard roasts at the beginning of the season, when he was not himself. He was suffering from an attack of malaria that was enough to take the sap out of any one, but he has rounded up, and now he is ready to stop any team that he faces. You know he always had speed and control, and every day since he has been in the league he learned more about the batters until today he stands ahead of all of them. Give Johnson an average of three games a week and he will make one of the greatest records in history."

KUTINA IS WHITE HOPE.

St. Louis Browns' First Sacker Is Also Wrestler and Neighbor of Gotch.

Kutina, the former Saginaw first baseman, who is now holding down the initial sack for the St. Louis Browns, is a wrestling partner of Frank Gotch during the winter months. Kutina owns a farm adjoining the Gotch estate near Humboldt, Ia., and the ball player and wrestler are great friends.

Kutina is also a boxer of local fame in his home district. He is big enough to go for heavyweight honors, and it may be that some time he will be the hope of the Caucasians.

Seybold Holds Home Run Record. "Socks" Seybold holds the American league record for home runs. He established it in 1902. The former Athletic in that year made sixteen.

It will be an excellent idea during the next few weeks to run over the young orchard set last spring, cut out all but from four to six of the lateral branches and trim these back to from twelve to fifteen inches in length. This work is important, as it is this that determines the shape and nature of the head or frame. Another advantage of pruning at this time lies in the fact that the portions of the limbs remaining will thicken up and become thoroughly mature before cold weather sets in.

BREEDING EWE LAMBS.

Mating of Very Young Animals Rarely Proves Profitable.

Breeding ewe lambs is a business requiring great skill and careful management, and it should not be attempted at all except in the case of the early maturing breeds of rapid fattening propensities, writes W. R. Gilbert in the National Stockman. It generally proves too economical to be profitable, and only the few reap a profit by it. Those who propose to mate their ewe lambs during the coming season should remember that the tax of carrying a lamb or a pair of lambs is considerable. The drain on the system and the check of growth, the difficulties often experienced at parturition and the poor supply of milk cause those who try to save a year to regret having done so.

Sometimes the results appear to be fairly satisfactory and the lambs have eventually grown well, yet when the ewes come to be bred as two-year-olds they are not found to be such good sheep as maiden ewes of the same age. In fact, in many cases they will not breed at all and the second crop of lambs is apt to be stunted. Taken generally, there is as much folly in mating very young ewes as there is where other animals of the farm are concerned. The rational age to first mate the ewe is in the autumn of her second year—that is, when she is about eighteen months old.

If ewe lambs are bred it is necessary to feed the animals well during the whole period of gestation. This special feeding compensates to some extent for the drain on the system of the young growing sheep, but many have found the results not entirely satisfactory even in the first year, although the ewe lambs have been well kept throughout the whole twenty-one weeks of utero-gestation and have been designed for the breeding pen from weaning. Breed makes a good deal of difference, and so does selection, but what has been done with specially selected sheep is not necessarily possible to every farmer who thinks he sees economy in breeding from ewe lambs when they are well grown.
